Ok. I will be in touch Monday and plan to talk with Martin to make sure we have an answer one way or the other by Monday. Johanna

I think we can pull this off but I was just looking for advice on what to tell Sunnyside. I will ignore them until Monday aft and see where we are at. Thanks.

Dan I won't hear anything from management until Monday at best so I am inclined to say we should just hold off on the mineral creek sampling for this year. It sounds like there is other data and information available in Mineral creek from DRMS and now Sunnyside so Rob and others can look at that information. If you think you can put them off until Monday without relationship damage (are they planning split samples?) then do so otherwise I am comfortable with just keeping with the original sampling plan which sounds ambitious in its own right.

Hi Johanna

I know you probably don't have any word on the sampling however, I am getting pressure from Sunnyside who is doing oversight on the Upper Animas locations that we had previously scheduled. They asked me specifically (twice) if the scope has the same for the upcoming sampling...in a week. To my knowledge, they have conducted significant work up Mineral. If we spring a large event on them at the last minute it will be, yet another damaged relationship that has been collaborative to this point.

Any advice on how I should respond. I have ignored them for a full week at this point.
